

ETA Heiztechnik GmbH Privacy Policy

Our company, ETA Heiztechnik GmbH, hereinafter referred to as the Website Operator, uses your personal data in a very responsible way. The following Privacy Policy is intended to give you a summary of what is done with your data and what protection we provide.

Object of the Privacy Policy

This Policy applies to data made known through the use of the www.meineta.at internet platform and provides information about the use of said data. No exchange of data with other companies takes place; the Privacy Policy is limited to www.meineta.at.

Personal data and their use

To be able to use the www.meineta.at internet platform, you need a user account. This user account includes personal data such as name, address or e-mail address. The data are stored in our database for later processing during login. In addition, data that we receive from your browser (for example, Internet Explorer, Firefox, Safari, etc.) is automatically stored in our log files.

Transfer of data

The data we receive from you will not be transferred to third parties.

Cookies

The cookies that are stored on a visitor's computer are a frequent cause of uncertainty. However, these small files are purely for the storage of information. They do not produce viruses, attack the computer, or spy on you.

Processing and deletion of the data

Of course you have the right to correct the data stored in your user account at any time - indeed, that is actually very important to us if, for example, you change your address. You can request the deletion of your personal data at any time.

Data privacy

As mentioned previously, your data will not be transferred to third parties. To ensure data security, your user account is password-protected so that third parties have no access to the account and the data. In addition, the data are encrypted for transmission to our servers.

Changes to this Privacy Policy

The Website Operator reserves the right to change this Privacy Policy.